A perfect equality not only of the self, but in the nature is a condition of the Yoga of self-perfection. The first obvious step to it will be the conquest of our emotional and vital being, for here are the sources of greatest trouble, the most rampant forces of inequality and subjection, the most insistent claim of our imperfection. The equality of these parts of our nature comes by purification and freedom. We might say that equality is the very sign of liberation. To be free from the domination of the urge of vital desire and the stormy mastery of the soul by the passions is to have a calm and equal heart and a life-principle governed by the large and even view of a universal spirit. Desire is the impurity of the Prana, the life-principle, and its chain of bondage. A free Prana means a content and satisfied life-soul which fronts the contact of outward things without desire and receives them with an equal response; delivered, uplifted above the servile duality of liking and disliking, indifferent to the urgings of pleasure and pain, not excited by the pleasant, not troubled and overpowered by the unpleasant, not clinging with attachment to the touches it prefers or violently repelling those for which it has an aversion, it will be opened to a greater system of values of experience. All that comes to it from the world with menace or with solicitation, it will refer to the higher principles, to a reason and heart in touch with or changed by the light and calm joy of the spirit. Thus quieted, mastered by the spirit and no longer trying to impose its own mastery on the deeper and finer soul in us, this life-soul will be itself spiritualised and work as a clear and noble instrument of the diviner dealings of the spirit with things. There is no question here of an ascetic killing of the life-impulse and its native utilities and functions; not its killing is demanded, but its transformation. The function of the Prana is enjoyment, but the real enjoyment of existence is an inward spiritual Ananda, not partial and troubled like that of our vital, emotional or mental pleasure, degraded as they are now by the predominance of the physical mind, but universal, profound, a massed concentration of spiritual bliss possessed in a calm ecstasy of self and all existence. Possession is its function, by possession comes the soul’s enjoyment of things, but this is the real possession, a thing large and inward, not dependent on the outward seizing which makes us subject to what we seize. All outward possession and enjoyment will be only an occasion of a satisfied and equal play of the spiritual Ananda with the forms and phenomena of its own world-being. The egoistic possession, the making things our own in the sense of the ego’s claim on God and beings and the world, parigraha, must be renounced in order that this greater thing, this large, universal and perfect life, may come. Tyaktena bhunjithah, by renouncing the egoistic sense of desire and possession, the soul enjoys divinely its self and the universe.

A free heart is similarly a heart delivered from the gusts and storms of the affections and the passions; the assailing touch of grief, wrath, hatred, fear, inequality of love, trouble of joy, pain of sorrow fall away from the equal heart, and leave it a thing large, calm, equal, luminous, divine. These things are not incumbent on the essential nature of our being, but the creations of the present make of our outward active mental and vital nature and its transactions with its surroundings. The ego-sense which induces us to act as separate beings who make their isolated claim and experience the test of the values of the universe, is responsible for these aberrations. When we live in unity with the Divine in ourselves and the spirit of the universe, these imperfections fall away from us and disappear in the calm and equal strength and delight of the inner spiritual existence. Always that is within us and transforms the outward touches before they reach it by a passage through a subliminal psychic soul in us which is the hidden instrument of its delight of being. By equality of the heart we get away from the troubled desire-soul on the surface, open the gates of this profounder being, bring out its responses and impose their true divine values on all that solicits our emotional being. A free, happy, equal and all-embracing heart of spiritual feeling is the outcome of this perfection.

We must never forget that we are here to serve the Supramental Truth and Light and to prepare its manifestation in ourselves and upon the earth.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

General Information Meeting
The Residents’ Assembly Service (RAS) invites you to a follow-up General Information Meeting as preparation for a possible Residents’ Assembly Decision-Making Process regarding Auroville’s Entry Procedures:

Unity Pavilion, Tuesday 22 July, 2014 at 4.30 pm

The Community will be refreshed on the Proposal for Changes to the Entry Process as envisaged by the Entry Task Force (ETF), as well as hear a short update from the current Entry Group about the existing process.

The new proposal, brought forward by the ETF, has already been presented to the community several times. In the most recent meeting, on 6 May, 2014, concern was expressed regarding some details; it was agreed that the ETF would publish an impact statement that would be included with the RA Decision-Making Process question on the proposal. The 60 signatories required for such an event have been collected but the ETF had difficulties to prepare an impact statement. They are open to discuss it with the community during the meeting.

This 21 July meeting is designed to prepare the community for an RA Decision-Making Process (planned for 9 August 2014) on whether to accept or reject the new proposal.

For More Information: For more information, please don’t hesitate to email the Residents’ Assembly Service at raservice@auroville.org.in, or call us on 88702 88502.

Kind regards, Your RAS Team

New Council
Dear Community,

We would like to inform you all that the new Council has started functioning and we have had our first meeting on the 2nd of July in order to organise ourselves. The top priority for the new AVC is the formation of the Working Committee; we are in the process of calling resource persons.

We wish to be an interactive council with the community and we want to call regular GMs and the first one will be on Wednesday the 23rd of July, at 4.30 pm at Unity Pavilion.

The new Auroville Council [Matirprasad, Auroananda, Davaselvam, Rita, Renuka, Surya, Sindhuja]

BCC Announcement (with correction)

Dear Community: BCC seeks your reflections. We are re-posting this announcement because we had printed an incorrect email address for sending your reflections. The correct address is: avcouncil@auroville.org.in (and not avc@auroville). Here is the original announcement:

- For the last financial year (2013-14) BCC’s budget to the Auroville Security has been Rs. 3,058,596 which is the second highest budget allocated by the City Services only after the Forest.
- In addition, for the last ~1year BCC has been paying Rs.17,000 per month towards refreshments for the patrolling police personnel in Auroville.

There is a currently a proposal to extend the police patrolling until 31 December 2014 and therefore the funding for refreshments. BCC has for the time being continued the funding but feels it needs to consult the community about its experience / opinion on having police patrolling in Auroville, and continue funding for the same.

BCC will appreciate your feedback and requests you to kindly send them to the AV Council at (avcouncil@auroville.org.in).

Thanking you, Sincerely, BCC

From the Entry Service - N&N NO- 555

Dated 12.07.2014

We would like to inform the community that our team decided to recommend the following persons as Aurovilians and Newcomers. We will wait two weeks for Newcomers and one month for Aurovilians from this publication for your feedback before making our final decision.

AUROVILIANS:

Kiran KAMAL (Indian from Kerala) - Living at Maitreye, working as designer at Auromode.

Francesca PAPALE (Italian) - Staying at Baraka, working as farmer in Baraka and also working as theatre teacher in Last School.

Damien NAVINEAU (French) - Staying at Birhaaspati, working as Software engineer at Bluelight and as Acroyoga teacher at Arka.

Muthukumaran MALAYALATHAN (Indian from Kullapalayam)- Living at Equality, working as Manager at Le Morgan Cafe.

Anitha (Lakshmi) KATHIRVELU (Indian from Edyanchavadi) - Living at Equality, working as administrator at Bamboo research Centre.

CHILD OF AN AUROVILIAN:

We have identified a lack of clarity in the communication and confirmation of status, as the announcements done in the News and Notes are for FEEDBACK ONLY, and sometimes, after announcement, there can be either an extension of status, or a decision to stop the process overall. We are adding another section of confirmation to avoid further confusion.

PEOPLE WHO HAVE LEFT AUROVILLE ON THEIR OWN:

Patrick FERNANDEZ (French)
Fabienne VANVIERSSEN (French)

Youri FERNANDEZ (French)
Gael Tim FERNANDEZ (French)

In case the above person wishes to come back to live and work in Auroville, (s)he will need to restart his/her newcomer process.

TEAM MEMBERSHIP: The Entry Service is looking for new committed members.

Working towards a long term presence, prior experience in communication skills (relay with communication, human relation, interviews).

Fluent English, skill such as typing minutes, email follow up, listening, understanding and give information on entry at the desk and during interviews.

Latest news from ACT

Dear Community

After a lengthy and patient process with the road authorities, ACT has now succeeded to transfer one of the buses from TN registration to Pondy registration. This hurdle being jumped ACT can now resume the early morning service to Pondy starting from Transport Service (Certitude Cnr.) at 7:45 AM. The return from Pondy Ashram Playground at 12.00 pm has also now resumed.

From 14th July 2014 ACT timetable resume as it was since January 2014 - please refer to the “Essential Services” section in this N&N issue.

ACT thank you and appreciate your support.

How do Aurovilians like their Houses?

Second Analysis of the Survey on House Satisfaction and Building Materials

By Nourredine Kebaili under the guidance of Satprem Maini

We are happy to share these statistical results of the study with our readers:

Attitude on the houses

- 57% of respondents are slightly favorable to their houses, same as last week’s results.
- 30% of respondents are quite favorable to their houses.
- 13% of respondents are neutral to their houses.

Origin of knowledge about CSEB (Compressed Stabilized Earth Block)

- 60% of respondents got their knowledge about CSEB from the Auroville Earth Institute.
- 20% of it from formal learning such as schools and training centers.
- 20% of respondents got it from personal reading of books, magazines and internet.
- 20% of respondents got it from acquaintances (family members, friends, neighbors...)

These percentages cannot be totalled because some people responded with multiple sources for their knowledge about CSEB. But, it is nice to see the Earth Institute important role in teaching people about CSEB technology.

PLEASE NOTE: When the survey was first launched, many people who would have liked to participate found it was a tedious job to do. This is why it has been revised to make it shorter so that people can complete it in a few minutes. The new form now looks clearer and easier to complete. And once again we invite kindly more people to join in by using the following links: http://www.slideshare.net/AurovilleGreenPractices/camp-auroville-2014-documentation and https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=dsAESoGntl0&feature=you-tu.be

News from PTDC

Dearest all participants in PTDC,

Many of you are returning these days, refreshed and ready to continue your wonderful works for Auroville, and we are very happy to welcome you and enjoy again your lively daily presence in our shared atmosphere. For those who stayed in Auroville over the summer, thank you for keeping on and for sharing the intense summer heat!

Now that a new season starts, here is a small announcement regarding that delicious bread made freshly every morning in the Auroville Bakery: From this week onwards, we are again stocking regularly extra fresh bread for all. However, we still prefer that you order it weekly, so that neither the bread is wasted nor that you get frustrated if we don't have the bread you needed. You can see with Mahesh for bread orders from now onwards.

A last comment we feel like sharing with you: We are hearing far too often in PTDC expressions like ‘my account’ and ‘doing my shopping’. Although this sounds quite normal as compares to ordinary day-to-day life, we need to remind everyone that PTDC does not keep any individual accounts, even though we use your financial service account number to record your contributions. We could use any number, but that one is easiest for you to remember!

Your monthly contribution amounts all come together into our one PTDC collective account, from which we do the purchases for all. Monthly balances per participant are shown thrice a month for the purpose of tracking everybody's participation and responsibility towards the collective pot, to help us stay aware of our individual needs, share with others, and help to keep 'our family ship' afloat. PTDC works towards manifesting a practical example of active sharing in our collective life.

And about 'shopping'...well, you can do many things at PTDC, but it is not a place to 'shop'. PTDC does not sell anything, so you cannot 'buy' from us and, as a collective, nobody 'sells' to...

Dear friends,

There is a beautiful energy in this movement to get our locally and sustainably grown food more appreciated, and to grow more of it - not only on Auroville’s farms but also in our gardens and public spaces, creating a healthy environment, and a natural way of connecting us to Mother Earth.

What may be less obvious is just how crucially important all this is - not just because eating local is great for our health, and reduces the carbon footprint of what we consume, but because it asserts a fundamental right that is increasingly being threatened the world over: the right to choose what we grow and eat, and the diversity of life on our planet.

It may sound like a nightmarish imagination cooked up from some weird conspiracy theories - but a little research confirms the facts: The multinational GMO industry is attempting to force legislation in many countries that makes it illegal for people to grow their own food, to trade it, or even share it freely with their neighbours! The world over, governments and research institutions alike have lost their sovereignty and integrity, even while the United Nations have recognised and promoted small-scale, sustainable farming as the only way to feed the world, and strongly support Urban Agriculture!

Fortunately there is an awakening 'at the grassroots level’, and one can only hope that people all over the planet will stand up and take positive action before it’s too late. It is in this perspective that Auroville’s strong call towards growing and consuming ‘localicious’ food, freely and sustainably, comes not a minute too early, and feels like a crucial contribution to what is going on world-wide!

Concretely, what is happening in Auroville?

At present, there is a meeting every two weeks on a Saturday morning at Solitude, where updates are shared on various projects that have started up, participants exchange ideas and network together. It all feels joyful and dynamic, and everybody who has an interest in locally grown, organic food is very warmly invited to participate! There are plenty of opportunities to contribute in so many ways, with each one bringing his or her talents, inspirations, and skills.

- A WikiPage is being created as part of the AuroWikipedia, where all the different projects can be viewed and continuously updated. A google group has been set up for ease of communication, and ‘Localicious Auroville’ is now also on Facebook. All this is by and for all of us, it is up to us all to make it work!

- With space in N&N being too limited to share all the promising projects, we encourage everyone to visit the online spaces, to come to Solitude for meetings, or to get in touch directly with any of the initiatives.

- The Food Table in front of Solar Kitchen (Mon, Wed, Fri 11.30 - 1.30) is a great way of celebrating Auroville’s fruit (and community); volunteers are needed to keep it going!

- Cooking classes with local food (and knowledge) have started to happen, and will hopefully be extended to a variety of locations and timings.

- These are only a few of a whole gamut of initiatives bubbling up and starting to blossom in so many ways and places. Come and be part!

- And finally, even from home, there are things everyone can do: simply be a conscious consumer, eat wisely and well, and enjoy the tastes of what our Auroville soil has grown!

Eating mangoes with the mind

Mango season in India - what a treat! Really? In Europe the summer is showing off with apples, cherries and many berries which for many of us by now are childhood memories only. Coming back from Europe and seeing the mangos in PTDC my heart jumped. But the ecstasy didn't last that long. I was reminded on a very similar situation 25 years ago in Germany when I was active in the Green party and lived for the most part on organic food. The fruits and vegetables offered in the “Bioladen”, the shops where one could buy organic food, were often rather a caricature of the food than the food itself. Apples were so small, sour and even with worms that I always asked myself why one would buy such an apple. The commercial fruits were much better in taste and quality. Yes, yes, many chemicals were used in growing an apple (in average 25 times spraying before the apple was in the shop) but the apple tasted like an apple and not like a lemon!

When I was in PTDC I was challenged again: Commercial mangoes full of I-don’t-want-to-know-stuff or the good organic mangoes from AV. I tried both and I decided should I end my life in Auroville I would rather do it with a piece of juicy sweet commercial mango in my mouth than a sour organic one full of fibres and dry like a Gorani in May.

Something went wrong on the way but what? It took almost 2 decades in Germany till organic farming got professional enough to produce organic food of a certain quality. Organic alone was not enough. Not so long ago the European Community introduced some standards for organic food which are lower than the original German standards but good enough for large scale food production. By these standards tiny sour apples with worms were out of the question to be sold as organic food. For one reason: because they did damage the general image of the organic food industry. Apples became bigger and juicy and today, not only do they have a normal size, but the taste is way better than commercial ones. And they are free of chemicals and gen-technology.
India and Auroville might have to go a similar path. In terms of mangoes it means to plant good quality mango trees today so that in 10 years good quality organic mangoes can be produced. Just having a mango tree in the garden not being spayed has little to do with organic food production.

Are there good organic mangoes in Auroville? Where? Why are they not in PTDC?
Roaming around half the day to get quality organic food from different places is not an option for many of us busy with daily work. But to enjoy the present organic mangoes one has to eat them with the mind - Ahhh, they are organic!

Juergen, Creativity [P.S: Maybe there are even commercial mangoes that are not that toxic...]

Our Justice System

For me, all the talk about the feedback relating to the proposed WC/AVC members is connected to a much larger issue - our Justice System. What does justice mean? What kind of a justice system do we want to have in Auroville?

I think that unless we look at these questions as a community, we will have no system at all or unconsciously inherit the default justice system - which means that some people have the power to decide what’s right and wrong and these powerful people try to control other people who do “bad” things - control in the form of laws (to deter people from doing bad things), or control in the form of punishment (continue the cycle of violence - do violence to the one who did violence, hoping that he/she will change his/her ways!). This may have worked in the time of kings or the likes, when a few elite had a lot of perceived power and the general population needed to play the game in order to protect their chances of staying alive.

Today, I think we can prove over and over that this form of justice, although it’s the norm in most of the world, is not actually fully serving. Why do we still have crime then? How is it that the news is filled with stories about people who manage to commit crime, despite our laws and control systems? Like someone who can board a plane with a fake passport and/or with explosives, despite our very developed security systems?... As long as we use power, control, fear, threats, punishment, we will continue to attract those who can outsmart and defy the system - because these systems are in themselves neither infallible nor almighty.

For me, the only way forward is to develop a conscious justice system, one that is holistic and able to hold the full picture - the past, present and future (I mean, hold this intention - obviously we cannot predict the future), the complexities behind the act, the reasons for acting out, the impact the act has on others in the community, the consequences on all sides, taking responsibility - all of us, as we normally all have a role to play in the act (and the healing and reconciliation that comes from that), and a search for how to restore trust and willingness to co-exist...and if we don’t do this last part, we are just hurting ourselves in the end...

If we can only devise a system that keeps the bad people out (even that’s not do-able, because I might think you’re the bad person, but you will probably think I’m the bad person!), we give those bad people only 2 choices - to submit or to rebel. And if they rebel, their act is likely to be even more harmful than the first time around. Because we have not heard them the first time, they will likely want to shout louder the next time. And who gets hurt? In the end, we all do...

The funny thing is that actually as human beings, I believe we are designed to collaborate and contribute to each other’s well-being (therefore our social, interdependent nature). The only catch is that this formula is dependent on trust and connection - when we trust each other and feel connected, we’re willing to go to extremes to help each other, and when we don’t we’re willing to exclude, spit on, and kill.

So how do we work on (re-)building trust amongst us...? I don’t think this comes from putting expectations that we all be perfect (because that’s not do-able and we all have different versions of what’s acceptable/non-acceptable behaviour), but instead from growing in our ability to hear and understand each other, to develop some curiosity for how another views life, curiosity to understand what values might have been a stake and how a certain act may have actually been a desperate attempt to protect that value (even if, in hindsight, that act was a poor choice). As unbelievable as it may sound, I’m quite convinced that this is where our unity lies - in our shared common values - we all want to belong, to feel safe, to have meaning, to contribute, to be seen...And when we can see these reflections of our own selves in each other, I believe we soften and move closer together...When we’re closer, there’s less need to shout (verbally or with violence), even when if we disagree...

From this space, we might find ways to move forward that take a more holistic picture into account - where the one whose act is in question can agree to do certain things to rebuild the community’s trust in him/her, where those impacted can take a more active and responsible role in creating a new level of safety, and where as a community we can focus on how to move towards reconciliation, re-integration and willingness to co-exist...

Auroville in Quest of its Group-Soul

“19. (1) The Residents’ Assembly shall perform such functions as are required by this Act and shall advise the Governing Board in respect of all activities relating to the residents of Auroville...

20. (1) There shall be a Working Committee of the Residents’ Assembly which shall assist the Residents’ Assembly or, as the case may be, the Governing Board, in discharging its duties under this Act.”

The Auroville Foundation Act

Until 1992, when the Auroville Foundation effectively took over, all issues were debated at well attended general meetings, in absolute transparency. Wrongdoings were exposed and rectified. The collective decisions were binding and implemented. This natural process, streaming from our common will, got hijacked by authoritarian Working Committees and groups taking unilateral decisions above our heads; discouraging the old timers’ participation, while new Aurovilians have no clue on what basis we happily functioned. An increasingly dysfunctional ‘political’ body was the outcome. This autocratic as much as secretive strategy has undermined the truth of our collective being - brotherhood and sharing, one in the common goal - while engendering absenteeism and laissez-faire. Ethics, values, the very ideals of Auroville are dishevelled. A lawless no-man land is the produce.

Can we recover Auroville’s raison d’être and lofty goals, and live our svadharma?
The Governing Board and the International Advisory Council came into existence as support of the Residents Assembly - the free, self-governing body of the community as a whole, and the third constituent of the Auroville Foundation Act, passed to foster the realization of the Charter and the ideals the Mother set for Auroville. This demands the evolution of the Residents Assembly, composed of a humanity still largely infrarational (Sri Aurobindo’s language in The Human Cycle) into Auroville’s group-soul, without which the true Auroville cannot manifest.

Our organization should be an emanation of Auroville’s quest for the group-soul. In the Auroville Foundation Act, fathered by Kireet Joshi, there are explicit provisions for this endeavor, with the support from the other two bodies of the Foundation, namely the Governing Board and the International Advisory Council. In a self-governed community led by its group-soul there is no place for ancient regimes. Assuring, re-instating, that freedom of self-determination without which no group-soul is empowered, the time has come for the ‘dominant minority’ to abdicate.

We should pass guidelines for an organization conducive to the emergence of Auroville’s group-soul, while the systemic misinterpretation of the Act is proof of inadequacy to fulfil our dharma. Performing as a group-unit (in Sri Aurobindo’s language, the herd), instead of a group-soul? The ideal of direct/representative democracy, underlying the group-soul principle, is implicit in the Act, where the powers of the Residents’ Assembly are supreme, even stating, “the Working Committee of the Residents Assembly”. Henceforth, NO to the arbitrary, whimsical rule by a few! NO to machineries further fragmenting our political body, introducing even more divisive classifications!

Let’s appoint for the WC trustworthy people at the service of the Residents Assembly, to which they are fully responsible, and of whose will they are the ambassadors and dedicated executors, in total surrender, integrity and transparency.

Is the gulf between this principle - sanctioned in the Act - versus the abusive power structures of the so-called working groups (starting from WCs, having no resemblance with the Act’s frame) grown irreversible?

Those allergic to the word democracy should differentiate between today's parliamentary democracies (burdened by elitism, corruption and power games) and experimental models of direct participation. We should foster a system that guarantee the equal rights of individuals within the collective process, and guards against any infringement upon those rights. A system empowering the individual to partake in decisions concerning him/herself as one indispensable part of the collective body, and where every Aurovilian is responsible for trying to live by the Charter - aware of the necessity of functioning, collectively, through the group-soul (not subconsciously, but in its highest sense), as we should strive to function, individually, through the psychic being.

Then only the dispute on the Residents’ Assembly subsides. Experimenting with new patterns, a worthy attempt would be a hybrid between general meetings reverting to free, human exchanges, study-groups open to all concerned, ad hoc seminars and workshops; utilizing the tools of cyberspace, at last freed from ‘political’ orientation and censorship, making participation readily available to each and all. Those of selfless ideals and ideas, the avant-gardes and forerunners, the simple minded yet sincere citizens, variously oriented groups would then be able to mobilize the larger community of individuals. The outcome should be a transparent, unbound system of decision-making, self-regulatory, where information could truly be impartially processed, proper decisions taken and implemented, wrongs swiftly corrected. Most importantly, where all interact, sharing in the process of learning decision-making, indispensable to the birth of Auroville’s group-soul.

INVITATIONS

Remembering Professor Arabinda Basu

Savitri Bhavan, Sunday July 20 2014, 3.30 to 5 pm

Professor Arabinda Basu (1918-2012), known to many in Auroville and the Ashram as ‘Arindam-da’, had contact with Sri Aurobindo and the Mother from his teens, and visited the Ashram regularly from 1941 onwards. Sri Aurobindo encouraged him in his academic career, and in 1952 he was invited to become Professor of Comparative Religion at Durham University in the UK where he taught for 15 years before returning to join the Ashram in January 1968. He was one of the best-loved exponents of the vision of Sri Aurobindo, who was invited to speak all over India and abroad. He was also one of those chosen by the Mother to give talks here in Auroville in the 1970s. He passed away in the Ashram Nursing Home after a short illness, a few days before his 94th birthday, in July 2012. We will be remembering him in the presence of his son Robert and his assistant in later years Mousumi. Dr. Aster Patel is the chief guest and speaker. There will be a slideshow on his life, refreshments, and an opportunity to share memories.

Everyone is welcome

Sat Sangh at Savitri Bhavan

Every Saturdays from 5 pm to 6 pm

Everyone is welcome

Repos Beach reopens! Come join the party!

We are extremely happy to announce that Repos Beach is reopening its gate the 13th of July 2014 onwards. To mark the day, there will be a number of events from 8h30 until 20h30: Photo exhibition, beach volleyball tournament and a small inauguration party in the evening.

As Repos Beach is a victim of natural and manmade disasters since years, we will profit from this occasion to raise the awareness about the protection of the beach. The main aim of the photo exhibition is to show the gradual degeneration of the beach, from its glorious past to its oblivion and the effort of reconstruction till date.

A nice Kitchen will be there to receive you and entertain with its finger licking food

Please do come, so that we all can work together and save our beloved place.

Repos Beach Management Team, in collaboration with MultiDimension

It's nice to see you back in the Lab teaching Spanish, and Rebecca continues English for Beginners. Premalatha continues Tamil. Chandrima remains available for Sanskrit, Hindi and Bengali, for smaller and one-on-one classes, by appointment on request. Anne is doing an intensive once a week 3 hours German Beginners class until the end of July.

We are looking for another English teacher, who could teach a new Beginners’ class as well as the Intermediate and Advanced classes. Rebecca is quite taken up with her other activities and so we need another motivated person, whose mother tongue is English, to help out. We are also willing to teach other Beginners and Intermediate students, of course. Those who want to join need to call the Lab in advance.

NEW SCHEDULE OF CLASSES - July 2014

Coordinator: In preparation for the move to the new building in the International Zone, which will need a larger team, we had advertised for the post of Coordinator. We thank all of those who applied and are happy to welcome Anny from Petite Ferme as part of our team, bringing joy, fun, and Swiss organization to the Lab! The others who applied are welcome to contact us in a year’s time when it would be time to move into the new building.

We are also very happy to welcome Sophie from Anusuya who has started teaching French with a big and welcome bang. The schedule of classes is below. There are two groups for beginners, one for intermediate and one for advanced students. Those who want to join need to call the Lab in advance.

PITANGA

Rosa re-starts from this week offering: “Individual ATB sessions” in Pitanga

A work on listening the Being through your body, allowing old patterns to dissolve effortlessly by your conscious presence. Using tools as the breath, movement, deep relaxation, sensory awareness, touch... and practicing the positioning in the witness attitude.

The purpose and intention is to accompany those interested to keep increasing awareness and embodying more fully their bodies. Even if these sessions are not intended to be therapeutic, a release of certain tensions and a sense of an increased well-being may be a clear effect for the person.

If you have any doubt do not hesitate to phone and get some clarifications: Rosa 2623885

“Towards a Sustainable Future - Auroville, 36 years of Research”

This documentary film shows the efforts and the research work for reforestation and the development of environmental awareness and knowledge for plants and species in Auroville, it shows the efforts for water harvesting, research in architecture, agriculture, seed collection and the support of projects in the bio-region to help the people to plan the future, as for the outreach project in Nadukkupam, a Government High School & Environment Education Centre. The banyan tree close to the Matrimandir and Amphitheatre is telling the story of how Auroville's life developed beautifully from the early beginnings until 2004. Duration: 51:54min.

AFRICA HOUSE, PAVILION OF AFRICAN CULTURE IN INTERNATIONAL ZONE

Invites everyone at the occasion of Nelson Mandela Day

On July 18th at 5 pm at Unity Pavilion

To screening of “A Long Walk to Freedom”

Followed by “Bunny Chow” dinner, authentic “South African Street Food” unassuming yet delectable, and true symbol of the historic bond between South Africa and India

The film which celebrates Nelson Mandela’s extraordinary life journey from his childhood in a rural village through to his election as President of South Africa, is an inspirational film which will motivate people to make a difference in the lives of the less fortunate. Having the first show on 18 July as a free screening will hopefully enable the public to watch the film and be inspired by its message and then go into their communities and make an effort to live up to the motto of Mandela Day - “Take Action. Inspire Change. Make every day a Mandela Day”.

In South Africa Videovision Entertainment, The Nelson Mandela Foundation and Ster Kinekor have teamed up to celebrate Madiba by making available the film, Mandela: Long Walk To Freedom, to the public at no cost. The screenings will take place on 18 July 2014 at 09h45 at selected Ster Kinekor cinemas across South Africa.

“Love comes more naturally to the human heart... (Nelson Mandela)”

The thirsty Rango instantly takes on the role of both and selfishly agrees to take on the case of their missing water.

Satyajit Ray Film Festival @ CINECLUB

Ciné-Club - Sunday 20 July, 8:00 pm:
- MAHANAGAR (The Metro City)
  India, 1963, Director Satyajit Ray with Anil Chatterjee, Madhabi Mukherjee and others, 122 mins, Drama, Bengali with English subtitles, Rated: PG
  The struggle between traditional and modern values in Indian life is the centerpiece of this movie, Unlike Ray's earlier works, this film deals with the life of an ordinary middle class Bengali family and spotlights the changing role of women in India during the 1960s. Based on a short story by Narendranath Mitra and set in Calcutta, is another example of Ray's indelible craftsmanship, of his superb storytelling and his exceptional ability to tell a universal story which is both moving and educative in a simple yet very effective way.
