C.
HOUSE OF MOTHER’S AGENDA

It is the narrowness and deficiency of consciousness that cause all our troubles, moral and even physical, as well as our impotence and the perpetual tragicomedy of our existence. But the remedy is not to starve the vital, as the moralists would have us do; it is to widen it; not to renounce, but to accept more, always more, and to extend one's consciousness. For such is the very sense of evolution. Basically, the only thing we must renounce is our ignorance and narrowness. When we frantically cling to our small frontal personality, to its put-ons and sticky sentimentality and saintly sorrows, we are not really “human”; we are the laggards of the Stone Age; we defend our right to sorrow and suffering.

The seeker will no longer be fooled by the dubious game going on in his surface vital, but for a long time he will keep the habit of responding to the thousands of small biological and emotional vibrations circling around him. The transition takes time, much as the transition from the world-mongering mind to mental silence did, and it is often accompanied by spells of intense fatigue, because our organism loses the habit of renewing its energy at the common superficial source (which soon appears crude and heavy once we have tasted the other type of energy), yet it still lacks the capacity to remain constantly connected to the true source, hence some “gaps.” But here again the seeker is helped by the descending Force, which powerfully contributes to establish a new rhythm in him. He even notices, with ever-renewed astonishment, that if he takes but one small step forward, the Help from above will take ten toward him—as if he were expected. It would be quite wrong to believe that the work is only negative, however; naturally the vital likes to think that it is making huge efforts to struggle against itself, which is its skillful way of protecting itself on all fronts, but in practice the seeker does not follow an austere or negative rule; he follows a positive need within his being, because he is truly growing out of yesterday’s norms and yesterday’s pleasures, which now feel to him like a baby’s diet. He is no longer content with all that; he has better things to do, better things to live. This is why it is so difficult to explain the path to one who has never tried it, for he will see only his own current perspective or, rather, the loss of his perspective. Yet if we only knew how each loss of perspective is a step forward, how greatly life changes when we pass from the stage of closed truths to that of open truths—a truth like life itself, too great to be confined within limited perspectives, because it embraces them all and sees the usefulness of each thing at each stage of an infinite development; a truth great enough to deny itself and move endlessly to a higher truth.

Behind this childish, restless, easily exhausted vital, we will find a quiet and powerful vital—what Sri Aurobindo calls the true vital—that contains the very essence of the Life Force devoid of its sentimental and painful byproducts. We enter a state of peaceful, spontaneous concentration, like the sea beneath the movement of the waves. This underlying stillness is not a dulling of the nerves, any more than mental silence is a numbing of the brain; it is a basis for action. It is a concentrated power capable of initiating any action, of withstanding any shock, even the most violent and prolonged, without losing its poise. Depending on the degree of our development, all kinds of new capacities can emerge from this vital immobility, but first of all we feel an inexhaustible energy; any fatigue is a sign that we have fallen back into the superficial turmoil. The capacity for work or even physical effort increases tenfold. Food and sleep are no longer the single and all-absorbing source of energy renewal. (The nature of sleep changes, as we will see, and food can be reduced to an hygienic minimum.) Other powers, often considered “miraculous,” may also manifest, but they are miracles with a method; we will not attempt to discuss them here, as it is better to experience them directly.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Meeting to plan for road litter and regional waste problem

Everyone has noticed the increase in litter and waste dumps along Auroville main roads and in and around local villages. With consumption and population growth rates on the rise, this problem is probably only going to get worse.

We, the AV solid waste management task force, are calling a meeting to plan for how to deal with this mounting problem. Please come -- if you are interested in contributing time, energy, or funds towards a solution. Please don't come just to share your experience of the problem, or to tell others how to solve it. This is a meeting to discuss practical steps moving forward, and to pool resources towards a workable solution.

The meeting will take place Thursday, November 6th, 4-6 pm in the Eco Pro Conference room (Aurosarjan complex).

Hope to see you there,
Solid Waste Management Task Force

Contributions towards House Tax bill for 20013-14

Direct debit from your AVMF Account

Dear Friends,

Auroville Unity Fund has paid in advance the house tax bill for 2013-2014 to the various local Panchayats. As you are surely aware house tax is one of their main forms of revenue and it is a statutory requirement that it is paid.

We ask all residents to pay their contributions – based on the size and type of accommodation each one of us is occupying, to help to cover the collective house tax bill. Since it’s a lot of work to send a separate bill to each household, we are proposing to debit directly your AVMF account from 1st November, 2014, as had been done the previous year.

If you have any questions or suggestions, please contact:
Rathinam, Kumar.K or Guna.A, Town Hall 2622455, 2622879.
Email: aurovillefund@auroville.org.in
Thank you,

Coordination for Informal Education Activities

The Auroville Council has been made aware of various issues and concerns related to the wide range of activities that fall under the heading of “informal education” or “adult learning” opportunities in Auroville.

The concerns can be framed by three questions:
- Are these activities aligned with the spirit of Auroville?
- Is the content related to the development/well-being of Auroville?
- How are the many practical and economic issues being handled?

The Council subgroup in charge of this topic has had some preliminary discussions with representatives of various groups who are involved in informal education, resulting in a consensus that Auroville’s needs would be served by the creation of a group that will focus on the coordination and development of any necessary guidelines for these activities.

Please note: This relates to all kinds of workshops, courses, training, educational visits & other related programmes & guest houses would also be included to be part of guideline formulation and implementation processes.

This is an invitation to anyone who would like to participate in this discussion. You can either submit a written statement with your input and/or ask to be included on the mailing list to receive announcements regarding future meetings and meeting notes. All concerned persons should write to <eduforum@auroville.org.in> Copy to avoffice@auroville.org.in. Please use the title “Coordination for Informal Education Activities” in all correspondence.

FRANCE == AVI France, having had a close relationship with the UNESCO headquarters in Paris throughout the years, has been collaborating in the preparations for the now official installation at the UNESCO premises of the bronze Sri Aurobindo statue, cast in Calcutta (and similar to the statue at Savitri Bhavan). The massive sculpture found a prominent place overlooking the Garden of Peace, directly adjacent to one of the main entrances (Ségur Hall 125, avenue de Suffren) of the enormous three-winged UNESCO building complex.

Inauguration of Sri Aurobindo statue @ Paris, 21 October

Nadia Loury, current president of AVI France writes about the event: On Tuesday, 21 October, the installation of the statue of Sri Aurobindo in the gardens drew about 150 people in the lobby of the UNESCO building, in the presence of Dr Karan Singh, member of the UNESCO Executive Board and chairman of the Auroville Foundation, Ms Irina Bokova, UNESCO’s Director-General, and Ms Ruchira Kamboj, Ambassador, Permanent Delegate of India in UNESCO. In her speech, Ms Bokova called the placement of the statue a recognition of the immense spiritual work for humankind done by Sri Aurobindo. She mentioned that Sri Aurobindo’s vision is at the origin of the Auroville project, and that his vision continues to inspire and educate the world. “He represents that which is most precious in India, as did Swami Vivekenanda whose birth anniversary was celebrated last year.” The inauguration of the statue is also an occasion to pay tribute to India, that enormous country, and the main thread that brings us together today is the conviction that peace can only come about when based on wisdom, as the crises we are experiencing are not only economical, but moral and ethical. His message is that of India.

Dr. Karan Singh then took the floor, retracing the life of the philosopher, revolutionary and visionary, and suggested that Yoga be added to the ‘UNESCO list of the Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity’. He ended his speech by reciting the beautiful ‘Who’ poem by Sri Aurobindo.

Among the public were, apart from UNESCO dignitaries, many members of AVI France, Gilles Lachaud of the French Pavilion, Jose Luis of AVI Spain, Aurovilians Francine, Anne H. and Marti, as well as ‘old-timers’ Robert and Gap Aarsse (the latter’s large stylized portraits of Sri Aurobindo formed a graceful background to it all). Copies of the AVI book were given to the speakers, and Nadia and Mandakini had a chance to communicate with Dr Karan Singh who highly encouraged the Aces for Auroville land campaign and insisted with ardour on a French Pavilion “Why has it still not been built?” And “there should be a European Pavilion representing the different countries!”

(José Luis of AVI Spain made a compilation clip of the event www.youtube.com/watch?v=HyFkgPosMJA)

Café Auroville @ Paris, 25 October

AVI France’s ‘Café Auroville’ gatherings were initiated about 2 years ago and one was held in Auroville last winter. In Paris there are about three a year, and each time the theme is different. Focus of the Café on 25 October, held at the Atelier Fil Rouge, was an introduction to Auroville with as center piece Olivier & Christine’s recent film, ‘Auroville, the City the Earth needs’. There were about 40 people of all ages; 15% in the age group 20-30, and about 20% had never been to Auroville. Familiar faces included Marti, Cléo, Anne H., and Hashi who participated in the lively discussions afterwards. The next Café will be on 29 November with a film interview of Kireet Joshi plus the presentation of the new-to-be Auroville International France website.

APPEAL

Lilaloka, Self-Learning and Resource Center for the Child, needs your support

Lilaloka, the place of Play (in Sanskrit), offers an educational approach centered on Joy that assists children in becoming the creator of their own lives. Through Joy the child blossoms, finds his path, gains trust in his potentialities. Joy connects us to our inner child, to others, gives meaning to life. Albert Einstein said "Play is the highest form of research," and play allows the natural learning process to unfold with joy.

The Lilaloka team at present consists of 8 experienced educators who will offer many activities: 12 are already planned and some are already running (visit our blog for details: http://lilalokaproject.blogspot.in/ ). The activities are based on free choice and non-judgment, individually or in mixed age groups, respecting each one’s particularity. Lilaloka’s activities will benefit all children: schooled, home schooled or differently-abled- and also big children (adults), whatever their age and beyond all categorization.

We want to work in collaboration with AV schools and parents, and we will also share our experience by consulting with schools in India.

Lilaloka Phase 1 is currently under construction (opp. Last School, after Kalabhumi) and is supported by SAIIER, Auroville School Board, Auroville Town Development Council, FAMC, Auroville International, and more than 100 donors so far.

We need to urgently raise 9.5 Lakhs Rupees (11875 Euros / 14615 Dollars) in the next 2 to 3 months in order to finish the roof and complete the raw structure of the building. Your support at this time is greatly appreciated and truly needed.

If you would like to donate, you can do so by transfer to our account at Financial Service: 252023, or via the Auroville gateway (http://www.auroville.com/donations/) by specifying “Lilaloka” in the section “project details - specific Auroville projects”, or by cheque in the name of “Unity Fund - SAIIER” with an accompanying letter specifying the funds are for Lilaloka.

If you want to know more about us or want to meet with us, contact us at lilaloka@auroville.org.in

Looking forward to hearing from you, with Gratitude, Lilaloka’s core team (Anna, Sandrine, Stacy, Yvelise, Rajan)

GREEN MATTERS

Monsoon, wasted water and reservoirs

With plentiful rains in the first few weeks of our north-east winter monsoon, the drought pattern that seemed to have established itself in South India these last years, is finally broken.

After more than six months of unprecedented hot weather, temperatures have dropped to around 30 degrees C, with a high humidity level of 90% - what a relief!

Since the beginning of the year, 108 cm of precipitation has been measured in Auroville, our annual average being 139 cm. Besides the monsoon-related challenges this brings to many sections of the population (collapsed walls, lighting strikes, flooded and dangerous roads), it brings cheer to farmers and foresters. Tanks, kolams and reservoirs are filled to overflowing, bringing some relief to depleted aquifers and providing a fine stock for the hot months to come.

However there are places in our state, notably Sivagangai in the Chettinad region (south of us between Thanjavur and Madurai), that lie in a ‘rain shadow’, with distressingly meager rainfall these last years. Twenty-five years ago the level of well water in that area was at 10-15 feet, today one has to dig to 1,000 feet to reach water! Further south still, in the Tirunelveli district, hundreds of ponds and irrigation tanks are still bone-dry despite the rains, while farmers and officials are watching several thousands of cusecs (cubic meter/sec) of floodwater of the Thamirabarani - Tamilnadu’s great perennial river that has its origin in the Western Ghats - flowing into the Gulf of Mannar. (Last week Thursday this loss was measured as 9,404 cusecs!) How distressing to see this huge quantity of precious fresh water being wasted, even as vast tracks of nearby land remain barren.

The Tamil Nadu government has envisaged an ambitious river-linking project, which is presently shelved due to non-availability of funds. The project aims at diverting the seasonal floodwaters of the Thamirabarani to several smaller rivers; engineering plans include a new 73 km long storm water canal and a number of smaller canals and structures, interlinking a total of six rivers, from where the water can be further diverted to be stored in hundreds of ponds and irrigation tanks. This will bring relief to the water-starved districts of Tirunelveli and Tuticorin, where farming has suffered not only due to drought but also through seawater intrusion into the once-fertile land...

Not that large-scale water engineering is anything new to South India! Tamil Nadu’s once-flourishing agriculture - with rice yields that are documented as having been double and triple of the highest yields today! - Used to be fed by a network of man-made water bodies, canals, eris (systems of cascading tanks for water harvesting) - a highly sophisticated and ingenious system, mostly about 1,500 years old, that have been called a marvel of engineering. These eris, which number about 40,000 across the state, used to be entirely managed by local communities, and were of central importance as the basis of all life. (Examples from our immediate neighbourhood are the Irumbai and Ousteri Lakes.) Due to centralisation under the British Raj and later the ‘Green Revolution’ - with the proliferation of borewells - the majority of these waterbodies were abandoned and severely suffered from lack of maintenance. Nowadays many efforts are underway to restore the eris, the smaller oorans and kolams, under the varied Integrated Watershed Management schemes that are being implemented across the state, placing the planning and responsibility back into the hands of the communities that once successfully managed these life-giving and highly sustainable structures.

Puducherry’s cleanliness drive

On a different aspect of environmental care, on the 1st of November Puducherry will celebrate its Liberation Day, marking the 60th year of existence of the Union Territory, and plans are ahead under the ‘Swachch Bharat’ (Clean India) campaign for making Puducherry clean by 2019. As part of the strategy; cleanliness and general sanitation in public places and offices, hospitals and educational institutions is targeted. 100% coverage of toilets in households, schools, colleges and water facilities by 2016, have been proposed. Presently in Pondicherry city over 30% of households are without toilet, while in the rural areas the figure is still 67%. The draft action plan also has provisions for addressing broken roads, footpaths and pavements, restoration of water drainage, removal of encroachments and litter on the streets and markets, and a sustained public awareness campaign aimed at keeping the environment clean. The local administration still has to formulate a detailed municipal solid waste management plan (MSWM), which despite some initiatives in the past, is not in existence yet. A system has been proposed that will impose fines (!!!) for throwing litter in public places, while compliance will be rewarded through incentives. Wouldn’t it be amazing that in a few years’ time we could journey over safe, unbroken roads to a clean and green Pondicherry, where littering is a forgotten ill of the past, public transport has replaced the congested and chaotic roads traffic, and we all can at last breathe clean air again?

Food for the City of Dawn

One can’t have health if we are disconnected from where our food comes from. Health of ourselves cannot be isolated from the health of our planet, our bio-region and the society in which we live in, all of which originate from the earth, from the soil in which our crops grow. This is the starting point for any healthy society, any society that has long term goals of equality and collective growth.

My question is how are we going to achieve this? Surely, as I have said it is not only the farmers’ responsibility. This needs a collective understanding, a collective aspiration that requires a great deal of self-education and work on changing how we relate to the food we eat and our relationship to where it comes from.

This year in Solitude organic farm Cafe, we have made flour from plantain and tapioca, we have mixed them with millet flours and made delicious dosa and many other dishes, we have used green papaya in various ways, a particular hit was the papaya and lemongrass soup. We have made use of the tangy passion fruits in juices and salad dressings; we have cooked tennai, sarmai, ragi and varagu in different ways and have also used radha’s consciousness flowers to make juice and the anti-cancer tree “Soursop” to make healing herbal teas. Banana flowers make vadais and cutlets, banana stem is cooked with coconut and garlic and makes fantastic curries; there are so many things we can do and are doing, only with local food that is obviously available in large quantities and at a low price and coincidently often has good nutritional and health benefits for us.

I could plant loads of tapioca now and have a huge harvest in July if there was a collective wish to use it. It would mean that the harvest of a farmer trying to sell his produce would have to shift and a collective responsibility for what is grown and maybe even its harvest and processing, if needed as in the case of tapioca, would have to come about.

This would mean more interaction within our society between farmers and consumers, better still, consumers may also start to see that to plant a few sticks of tapioca at home is so easy! Once they use it themselves and see what a good vegetable it is, they may start to open their eyes to other things too. Auroville could be self-sufficient in tapioca if we want! The same goes for cluster beans, certain spinachs, most of the gourds (bottle, ridge, bitter and snake gourd), pumpkins and certain other produces, especially during certain seasons, if our aim is to be self-sufficient. We could start by using these produces more and explore creative recipes. This would mean that when we say ‘we want to be sustainable’ as a community, that “we” actually means you and me. It is only ‘we’ who are going to make a change, which is the main idea behind the Localicious people’s movement; change will only come from us, individuals who are part of a society. Any alternative movement in the world has community at its heart. Without people nothing happens!

Anyway I could go on and on… I was originally going to write a short add for the Solitude Farm Cafe, but I got side tracked! Come and taste what we are cooking at Solitude Farm Cafe, local food has a huge role to play in building the city of dawn.

Love, Krishna

CLASSES, WORKSHOPS

LOCALLY GROWN VEGETABLES - SESSION 7
Lauki Dhall (Kootu) with Brinjal Chutney (Thovaiyal)
In over 3 months we have had 6 sessions, where 2 of them were on Banana Stems recipes and 4 of them with Green cooking Bananas.
The 4th month session starts with what is available in plenty in Auroville in these days - Bottle gourd (Lauki) and Brinjal.
The seventh session will be held on 8th November 2014 (Saturday) at 10.30 am, at Life Education Centre, opposite Isaiambalam School.
This will focus on the preparation of both: Thick Dhall (Kootu) made from lentils and lauki, as well as a thick Chutney (Thovaiyal) of Brinjal. The combination of a non-spicy dhall with a slightly sharp chutney, allows for the good balance of the taste buds.
For those of you interested in having recipe notes, we will make them available to you.
These bi-monthly sessions are offered by Buvanasundari.
The aim of these classes is to make you confident enough to prepare by yourself for your consumption at home. Allowing us to become aware of and using locally grown vegetables, the optimal use of mild spices and oil with good cooking techniques, will enhance the taste and savour, besides helping in getting familiar with using vegetables available where we live.
Looking forward to see you there on 8th of November, where we will see, learn, do, eat and ask questions!

THE POWER OF AWARENESS - THE SPECTRUM OF OUR CONSCIOUSNESS

3-day workshop with Sandyra - Nov. 7th - 9th

How can we walk our talk in the midst of all the turmoil we experience in our daily lives?

This challenge brings us easily back to our shadows and conditioning. The workshop will offer tools for a deeper understanding of ourselves. We will discover powerful ways which allow us to move forward in our evolutionary process.

We will look at how the mass-consciousness influences us and how we can shift and establish a higher consciousness within ourselves and therefore on planet Earth.

We enter into this deep inner transformational process by using powerful tools from great teachers. The playful and also serious attempt implements dance, meditation, art and nature, as well as mind-opening new concepts based on ancient wisdom.

Sandyra’s passion is to develop our consciousness and self-empowerment and to spread energetic healing techniques and principles. In recent years, her focus has moved towards humanity’s evolutionary process and therefore to a deep understanding of the huge healing process which humanity is drawn to. Many of the contemporary teachers she’s inspired by refer to the teachings of Sri Aurobindo.

She invites the community, volunteers and guests to participate in this (r)evolutionary emerging process, which helps us to understand what it means to be in the present moment and to truly act from the heart.

OM Choir

The voice that chants to the creator Fire,
The symbolled OM, the great assenting Word - (Savitri p.310)

In 1961 the Mother gave the adesh to Narad to bring down a new music. She said that one must go far above words and bring down the pure Music. Mother told us to sit in a circle and have no preconceptions as to what we would sing but to be silent and let the music descend in us. The OM Choir aspires to bring down the New Music for the New World in a collective body. We sing only OM, the creative and effectuating word after starting with warming-up and voice exercises given by Narad.

AT SAVITRI BHAVAN

“Let Us Work To Restore the Veda: Part 2”
Monday, 3rd of November 2014, at 6:30 pm.

“Why is Veda regarded as a book of knowledge?” and “What is the knowledge the Veda contains?” - These questions Shri Kireet Joshi is intensively reflecting to reveal the body of knowledge in the Veda. Firstly there is the need to know that the Indian Culture was highly psychological and educative on all levels. The Rishis knew about three levels of consciousness: 1. The Super-Conscience level, 2. The Conscience Level and 3. The Inconscience or Unconsciousness.

Shri Kireet Joshi is speaking about these levels of consciousness and about mantric poetry and the spiritual revelations in the Veda and is also introducing the significance about Agni, the secret fire within. At the end of the talk he is revealing that in the Veda the story of The Mother about the First Creation and Her vision about the sleeping and awakening of the Supreme Lord in the Inconscience is also there - as the sacrifice of the Supreme Purusha and the workings of Agni, the Supreme Light, Joy and Love in the Inconscience.

“The Life Divine” and “The Synthesis of Yoga” by Sri Aurobindo are containing the knowledge of the Veda. Duration: 82min.

Please Note: In case the ACT bus is not available as per the time table please be on the lookout for a replacement by Auroville Jeep or Van, we will ensure that a small white and orange sign is visible on the replacement vehicle.

All trips are paying trips and ACT welcomes your contribution everyday on every trip. ACT maintains its voluntary contribution policy aligned with Auroville’s utopia, ideals and aims. At present it is YOUR contribution ALONE which keeps the service afloat. Travel passes are available from Financial Service (Town Hall & Aspiration) and Guest Service (above the Solar Kitchen). For more information contact ACT (0413) 2622962 or act@auroville.org.in

In summary: 2 trips have been discontinued Thursday and Saturday morning trips. The logic being that there is a 7:45 AM departure from Transport Service every day except Tuesday. We assume this can somewhat fulfil the need for the 9:00 AM trip on these days. We have maintained the 9:00 AM trip on Tuesday when the 7:45 AM is not available. In addition the ACT bus is on duty Saturday (and Sunday) mornings for shuttling visitors from the Visitor Centre to Matrimandir viewing gallery.
