The Spiritual Meaning of Flowers

Radha’s Consciousness
“Is it possible for a human being to be perfectly sincere?” And this question continues:

“Is there a mental sincerity, a vital sincerity, a physical sincerity? What is the difference between these sincerities?”

Naturally, the principle of sincerity is the same everywhere, but its working is different according to the states of being. As for the first question, one could simply answer: No, not if man remains what he is. But he has the possibility of transforming himself sufficiently to become perfectly sincere.

To begin with, it must be said that sincerity is progressive, and as the being progresses and develops, as the universe unfolds in the being, sincerity too must go on perfecting itself endlessly. Every halt in that development necessarily changes the sincerity of yesterday into the insincerity of tomorrow.

To be perfectly sincere it is indispensable not to have any preference, any desire, any attraction, any dislike, any sympathy or antipathy, any attachment, any repulsion. One must have a total, integral vision of things, in which everything is in its place and one has the same attitude towards all things: the attitude of true vision. This programme is obviously very difficult for a human being to realise. Unless he has decided to divinise himself, it seems almost impossible that he could be free from all these contraries within him. And yet, so long as one carries them in himself, one cannot be perfectly sincere. Automatically the mental, the vital and even the physical working is falsified. I am emphasising the physical, for even the working of the senses is warped: one does not see, hear, taste, feel things as they are in reality as long as one has a preference. So long as there are things which please you and others which don’t, so long as you are attracted by certain things, and repulsed by others, you cannot see things in their reality; you see them through your reaction, your preference or your repulsion. The senses are instruments which get out of order, in the same way as sensations, feelings and thoughts. Therefore, to be sure of what you see, what you feel, what you experience and think, you must have a complete detachment; and this is obviously not an easy task. But until then your perception cannot be wholly true, and so it is not sincere.

Naturally, this is the maximum. There are crass insincerities which everybody understands and which, I believe, it is not necessary to dwell upon, as for example, saying one thing and thinking another, pretending that you are doing one thing and doing another, expressing a wish which is not your real wish. I am not even speaking of the absolutely glaring lie which consists in saying something different from the fact, but even that diplomatic way of acting which consists in doing things with the idea of obtaining a certain result, in saying something and expecting it to have a certain effect; every combination of this kind which naturally makes you contradict yourself, is a kind of insincerity gross enough for everybody to easily recognise.

But there are others more subtle which are difficult to discern. For instance, so long as you have sympathies and antipathies, quite naturally and as it were spontaneously you will have a favourable perception of what is sympathetic to you and an unfavourable perception of what — or whom — you dislike. And there too the lack of sincerity will be flagrant. However, you may deceive yourself and not perceive that you are being insincere. Then in that case, you have, as it were, the collaboration of mental insincerity. For it is true that there are insincerities of slightly different types according to the state of being or the parts of the being. Only, the origin of these insincerities is always a similar movement arising from desire and the seeking of personal ends — from egoism, from the combination of all the limitations arising from egoism and all the deformations arising from desire. In fact, as long as the ego is there, one cannot say that a being is perfectly sincere, even though he is striving to become sincere. One must pass beyond the ego, give oneself up totally to the divine Will, surrender without reserve and without calculation... then one can be perfectly sincere, but not before.

That does not mean that one should not make an effort to be more sincere than one is, saying to oneself, “All right, I shall wait for my ego to disappear in order to be sincere”, because one may reverse the terms and say that if you do not try sincerely your ego will never disappear. Therefore, sincerity is the basis of all true realisation, it is the means, the path — and it is also the goal. Without it you are sure to make innumerable blunders and you have constantly to redress the harm you have done to yourself and to others. There is, besides, a marvellous joy in being sincere. Every act of sincerity carries in itself its own reward: the feeling of purification, of soaring upwards, of liberation one gets when one has rejected even one tiny particle of falsehood. Sincerity is the safeguard, the protection, the guide, and finally the transforming power.

The Ponder Corner

Awaken the psychic in you, let the inner being come out and replace the ego, then the latent power also will become effective. You can then do the work and the service to which you aspire.

the early pioneers in India to implement water conservation in various coastal areas, thereby starting to pose a serious threat to the sustainability of these ecosystems with saline intrusion in the water table of the neighboring areas. Development and unrestrained water usage resulted in a gradual decline of these water storage tanks taking place in the post-cyclone period. It is observed that 50 years of development and usage of groundwater powered by electrical pumps contributed to the gradual decline of these water storage tanks, which were constructed during the Chola period between 1000 and 1200 AD. From 1970 onwards, a significant decline of these water storage tanks took place in conjunction with increased agricultural output, which was achieved through the installation of bore wells powered by electrical pumps. The combination of these efforts made possible through the installation of bore wells powered by electrical pumps. L’Avenir d’Auroville / TDC – Site and Building Applications feedback 16/7/2016

The following Site and Building Applications (SA and BA) are announced for feedback from the community for a period of two weeks from the date of publication.

The announcement is made for feedback only and does not mean that the project has final approval. The final approval is given when L’avenir d’Auroville / TDC issues an NOC (No Objection Certificate). This happens only once the feedback period is over, the feedback has been evaluated, a final decision by TDC has been reached and the necessary financial formalities have been completed. It is only after issuing a final building permission that fencing, building or any other activity on the site can start.

It has to be noted that site permission is given to reserve the site for a maximum period of two years in order to prepare a project proposal. It does not give any right to fence and clear the site unless, for practical reasons, there is a special permission of the TDC.

Collective Projects
Site application & Building Applications Feedback
Site and Building application feedback for Housing Service for 2 semi-permanent housing projects near Reve.

Project write up given by the project holder:
Project Title: Semi-permanent housing for young individuals/couples and young families (Aurovilians and Newcomers).

Proposed Site Location: Near Reve
Project Holder: Housing Service
Architect: Chun Hee
Contact Persons: Housing Service

Description / Background: After the Retreat 2015, it has become apparent that there is an urgent need to welcome more young people into Auroville, in order for real growth of all respects to happen. One of the biggest issues that Auroville faces today is a lack of housing, particularly for young Aurovilians and young people that want to join Auroville but have limited financial means. This fast-track housing initiative will at once address the needs of 14 individuals/couples and 6 families that are already in Auroville with an urgent need for housing. At the same time it will help to protect a valuable piece of land from the immediate danger of encroachment, in order to preserve it for future city developments. These 2 projects (Project X and Project Y) should be regarded as semi-permanent, as the buildings are permanent movable buildings with a life-cycle of about 30 years, but the site they will be built on is non-permanent, pending the further development of the city area. If the buildings need to be relocated before the end of their life-cycle, they can be fully dismantled and moved to another location without any of the materials going to waste.

Plot No: Near Reve (IR207/4A, IR207/4B, IR207/6, IR206/3A)
Total Area of the 2 projects: 7,573 sq.m. (Project X - 4197 sq.m. and Project Y - 3375 sq.m.)

Build up Area: Project X - 290 Sq.m., Project Y - 280 sq.m.

For additional information, please write to avenir@auroville.org.in, call 2622-170 or come directly to L'Avenir d'Auroville/TDC office in the Town Hall.

For more information on the location of the plots mentioned above, you can find this same announcement with map(s) on the Auroville website.

Update from the Auroville Safety and Security Team

Dear community, the first summer of the new team was happily safe!

Bag snatchers severing around Auroville in April / May were caught by the Police and some of the goods stolen were retrieved. You might have noticed police also installed a booth close to the Pitchandikullam bridge (installed by the police) which has helped to reduce aggression on the road to Auroville.

We are creating links with the police stations and officers! Every incident is reported in order for them to work as best as possible.

The Security Guards are patrolling Auroville on a regular basis to help secure the area and stand at key spots to help regulate traffic. Additionally Aurovilians are patrolling to help the guards. Their number will increase over time. We request all of you to respect and cooperate with the guards / Aurovillian patrols.

A reminder: receiving a guest / volunteer / intern is a responsibility! To avoid unwanted difficulties we request you to have them (foreigners as well as nationals) register and have them hosted within Auroville without which we might not be able to give our full support. Inform your guests / volunteers / interns of the common safety practices and ask them to save the Security numbers in their cellphone.

If you are expecting visit of non-Auroville residents coming by car, please inform us of the date / name / destination for the check-posts to welcome them.

Always keep under supervision the people working within your unit to avoid unnecessary internal conflicts or appropriation of goods.

Safety recommendations:

- Keep our phone numbers in your phone's directory to be able to call us in case of emergency.
- If you need assistance but do not have a cellphone, inform one of the guards posted at Visitor Center Checkpost, Certitude Checkpost, Solar Kitchen, Gaia or Transition. Note, the guards have to report to us prior to intervene in a situation.
- Travel accompanied at night. We recommend you to travel safely accompanied in the evening and at night time.
- Call our escort service if you need at 9443909107. Note that we only escort people who have a cycle, moped, bike or scooter. Our service stops at ending time of public events (around 10 pm)
- We encourage each of us to be aware on the road and within the communities' premises of potentially unwanted people.
- Inform your watchman or house-sitters to contact us immediately when there are any people / incidents to be reported.
- Do not to carry large amounts of cash or valuables on your person unless absolutely necessary.
- Keep bags on your person instead of in cycle baskets.
- We recommend isolated communities and houses to keep a watch dog.
- Women of all ages and modest dress codes have reported harassment. Be wary of three boys on a bike and do not stop for local men asking for directions.
- For post-incident support and counseling you may call the Women's help line (open in the morning) at 262-2425 or email AV health services avhs@auroville.org.in.
- Report every incident even minor either by phone or email!
Our team is constantly working on improving safety in Auroville, however your support and co-operation are indispensable to move forward.

Auroville Village Action Group (AVAG) Update

As you may know AVAG has been working, for the past 33 years within a 20km radius of Auroville, with all sections of society irrespective of caste, class, race & gender with a shared dream of a sustainable future for all.

Auroville with special attention to the immediate villages network of over 337 village level self-help groups (SHGs)

- 1. Community development
- 2. Economic development
- 3. Capacity building
- 4. Psychosocial support

The emphasis of our work is co-development through a network of over 337 village level self-help groups (SHGs) of 5,000 women and men in 78 settlements and 34 Panchayat villages benefiting 1,00,000 people living in the bio-region of Auroville with special attention to the immediate villages surrounding Auroville. The following are some highlights of our work over the past two months.

Some Recent Highlights:

AVVAI Summer Camp

May and June was a busy time in AVAG with the atmosphere heightened by the happy sounds of many young ladies engaged in extracurricular activities during the AVAG summer camp which was 1) a six-week program for 14-16 year old girls, primarily with Government school education, who were awaiting results of their 10th or 12th grade exams and 2) a one-week program for college girls. These girls are at a crucial juncture where choices have to be made that will help define their life’s path in a societal system that often compels them to select limited fields of study.

The summer camp aims to support the girls to improve their current capacity while opening them to a wider lens on life choice and possibility. The girls are provided with classes in essential skills that they need to pursue a higher education such as improved English speaking, reading and writing skills, maths and Tamil, computer skills, leadership and team building, drama and public speaking etc. They also have seminars on health including nutrition, personal and menstruation hygiene, female health and basic siddha medicine. They were exposed to a wide range of professions and life possibilities through excursions to Auroville and career guidance seminars on campus, in Pondicherry and at the Life Education Centre. This was backed up by administration support from AVAG staff in acquiring correct information and in processing college applications. The field trips to Auroville highlighted female entrepreneurs and sustainable life practices as well as a comprehensive introduction to Auroville.

The summer camp is part of the AVVAI program launched in 2015 by AVAG after having received a grant for girls’ education from Motherson Sumi Systems Limited (MSSL) under their Corporate Social Responsibility funding. Last year the scheme has enabled 457 girls, selected by AVAG Self Help Group network from marginalised families, to continue their primary education or pursue higher education at a college or university. Without this support, many families would have been forced to get loans from the money lenders at exorbitant rates of interest and some would have stop pursuing studies. Many girls expressed that this is also the first time that they had paid their full fees on time without the need to undergo criticism and the stigma for late payment. Though we were not able to support all who came forward , since the actual need was to the tune of Rs.2,00,000, this grant has undoubtedly shone the light on the lives of many marginalised girls.

The summer camp offered a valuable support to the girls to broaden their education in a stress free, creative environment, giving them extra support with their on-going curriculum and opportunity to experiment with topics that gave an integral viewpoint on life and would otherwise not be available to them.

It also gave the girls valuable support in choosing careers that suited them and our AVAG team a very rewarding opportunity to serve. We look forward to continuing and expanding this program.

Drinking water for Kottakarai

The motor for the drinking water outlet had been broken for some time in Kottakarai village; a request for help from the Panchayat saw AVAG joining forces with the village to repair the unit together through donations from both sides with the support of the village self-help group.

Exposure trip for Paalam members to model Panchayat

“Paalam” (meaning “Bridge” in Tamil) is a bio-regional youth leadership training programme that emerged from collaboration between AVAG, Youth Link and the Auroville Bio-region Action Group. The aim of this project is to establish links with the youth from the villages surrounding Auroville in order to foster relationship and co creation and in particular 1) to identify the most urgent needs for the future, 2) offer training in sustainable village development and 3) initiate projects together that will benefit the whole bio-region. AVAG is just completing a 6 months training program with this group with an exposure trip to Coimbatore district that has won the Panchayat Purasakar Award 2015 for best practices in solar power, bio gas, solid and liquid waste management, drainage, bio-methanation plant, hi-tech dairy farming and tree planting. It is hoped that this trip will inspire the youth to initiate projects in this area under the help of Auroville technical expertise and Government funding.

Sports Development in the Bio-region surrounding

Building on the success of the recent bio-regional sports event that had 722 participants from Auroville and 20 surrounding villages compete for events in volleyball and athletic activities, we propose to register the Auroville Bio Regional Sports Federation with the government and in each village we will form a sports club, (at the moment there are 5-15 groups in each village, we wish to form these into one body) involving all young men and women interested in varying sports activities. The village sports club will be a member of the association and will nominate members to represent them to attend meetings and seminars. Approximate, 30 settlements in 20 villages will be members of the association with Auroville and we expect at least 1,000 members from these 20 villages.

The objectives of this association are:
1. To form an association of sport between Auroville and the bio-region
2. To structure the current casual, ad-hoc sports network into a cohesive body
3. To develop the current level of skills
4. To develop the role of women in sports
5. To open up opportunities to young people that are available but largely unknown to them such as sports scholarships and careers in sports.
6. To work for further village development through this network such as infrastructural projects
7. To foster champions of change - youth who committed to health and social development rather than anti-social activities
8. To create a culture where the measure of admiration and success is perseverance, achievement and skills rather than the current cultural normative of caste and class

Annual Women’s Event
Plans are in progress for the annual women’s event where 5,000 men and women come together to celebrate and honour women. This will be held over a series of four preparatory

Auroville Sustainable Livelihood Institute - Outreach

At SLI the first year was about establishing the project, getting systems and process, people and relationships in place. This involves capacity building, internal training and development, building relationships with the many Auroville units who contribute to the programs as faculty members and building relationships with the clients; the Tamil Nadu rural development groups as well as third-parties who have converging interests.

There were other objectives for SLI that were not limited to training people appointed by the TN Govt. This included opening up workshops to people outside of the Govt. Institutions and there is some success with this and we are making efforts to expand this element.

Some of the other targets included Outreach Programs and some activities have been growing steadily. These programs have two objectives; the first is to understand a series of issues that the communities face first hand and unfiltered. This means travel into the field. With this input we are able to map needs against the skills that Auroville has developed over many years. In turn, armed with this information means that our workshops get tailored, schedules get adjusted and new programs get developed. A recent example of this has been the health and beauty workshops that focus on natural products and therapies. We also emphasise self-development skills based on practices widely used and enhanced in Auroville that can be passed on to the rural population. This is really about ensuring our participants learn things like stress management skills. Importantly though it is how we try to engage the groups in understanding some of the philosophy and practices of The Mother in the forming of Auroville.

The other element of note involves ensuring that the population of Auroville is kept informed of developments at SLI. One of the consequences is the regular posting of information through the various Auroville communications channels. Another component, with this in mind, is the plan for an “open-house” meeting so that people can find out more about our activities first-hand. We will invite the whole community to see the facility and participate in a discussion.

In collaboration with other Auroville units we have offered occasional workshops to Aurovilians, newcomers and guests and remain open to participation with other units or practices in presenting workshops in collaboration with them. So if you have a possible program please talk with us. We also invite Aurovilians who have ideas, skills and/or projects and would like to consider working with us in partnership or joining the other 40+ people who have worked with us as faculty members, to also get in touch.

In summary it is apparent that the SLI project is growing both in quality and quantity but we still have the facility to further expand. Our next posting will share more of those ideas and objectives.

We invite Aurovilians to visit our Facebook page www.facebook.com/tnavsli/

Auroorchard update: temporary egg shortage... why?

Dear community,

You may have noticed that in recent weeks fewer eggs from AuroOrchard have been available. This was due to a nutritional issue, and we are sorry for that; but our efforts at finding a solution are showing encouraging results, and soon the bottleneck should be resolved. We also have a young flock that is growing up and expected to start laying eggs from end of next month onwards. Better times are ahead for lovers of Auroville eggs, and soon we will be able to bring you some good news about improvements at AuroOrchard’s poultry. Stay tuned...! At your service, the AuroOrchard team

4th Auroville Singing Festival 2016 (unplugged)

Dear friends,

This year the Auroville Singing Festival will probably take place on Saturday the 8th of October 2016 at the Unity Pavilion. It will be more simple and modest and will last only one evening. We propose that participants perform, alone or in small groups, songs with a simple accompaniment or a capella, to reduce the load of technical installation. We reserve ourselves the right to decline accepting songs which are not sufficiently in the Auroville spirit. We would prefer that participants organize their own accompaniment as Rolf, Ananda and Gerhard may be able to help only in a limited capacity. Application forms can be obtained by email from: avsingingfestival@auroville.org.in. The deadline for submitting application will be 14th August 2016.

Welcoming you,
Ananda, Noeul and Rolf

News&Notes 16th July 2016 [656]
Marika: we did believe in the Dream coming true

They are leaving one by one. What made those people different is not because of special virtues, but because they believed, whatever their upbringing and karma, that we would make it. It was simply impossible to accept delays and obstacles as irreversible: Auroville was a certainty, and this made everything different, the people too. It was like seeing reality through a different filter.

Marika was a grand dame, whose noble ancestry went back to the XIIth century crusades. Her house in Milano was filled with art treasures, her elder son lives in a castle somewhere around Paris. But when she came, around 1984, Marika rented an anonymous flat in Pondy waiting for her place to be built (initially, a project to house difficult children); she even went on camping for around a year in Annamaria’s small flat, sleeping on a folding bed. Only in recent times her well off family accepted Marika’s choice, but one of her two sons still kept refusing to see her. As a mother she paid quite a price to be here, like a few other Aurovilians.

When, in 1987, Roger and Kireet asked me to draft the concept for a preliminary master plan and a CIRHU album, I invited Annamaria (an Auroville pioneer, and a talented artist) and her friend Marika to collaborate; we put up a preliminary exhibition, I still have those early papers. When we launched a study group on the Mother’s guidelines it was in Marika’s garden that we met. We did believe in the Dream coming true. We did.

Annamaria, Marika and myself also came up with the first code of conduct study-group. Afterwards there was the battle to handle professionally those in need of psychiatric help, successfully achieved by our group; Marika and I had secured the assistance of the psychiatrist at Nallam Clinic. Whether for humanitarian reasons (in Milano Marika volunteered for handicapped children), or pursuing the Dream, raising above her upbringing the Minneapolis lady, as long as health permitted her, was on the front line.

Marika and Annamaria assisted financially people in need, especially workers, advancing money or gifting it, also to Aurovilians sometimes ungrateful; even the wealthy son of Marika offered to do the needed for the child of their gardener who was getting blind. To share with less fortunate people is a dharma force, in the Catholic upbringing of certain old families, and the two Italian ladies thoroughly fulfilled their karma.

Most Aurovilians will remember Marika giving homeopathic remedies to humans and pets, having herself a large feline ‘family’, as she called them, plus a few dogs. She was also an active member of the Italian Pavilion. Hers was a conscious choice, leaving behind a glamorous lifestyle, properties and family - for that Lady who doesn’t want me yet, quella Signora che ancora non mi vuole, as she used to say about the Mother.

Clad in a white sheet sprinkled with flowers, her only property, surrounded by Aurovilians, was the last sight of her human remains. That Lady had called her and Marika, in her youth a classical singer, sang her last song. I felt seeing her real self for the first time. Death is the most important event in life: stripped naked of all masks we merge back into the Infinite we are.

The early Aurovilians belonged to another century, like the foundation of Auroville. The century of idealism, as a documentary on Cartier Bresson righteously defined the XXth century. This is what is missing in today’s earth atmosphere, we all miss it: the capacity of self-giving, the grand elan.

BHAGavadGITA - Chap. XII, 13-19 - The Yoga of Devotion

Adweshtaa sarvabhootaanam maitraah karunaa eva cha;
Nirnmaa nirahankaaraah samadhikhasukhaah kshamee.
13. He who hates no creature, who is friendly and compassionate to all, who is free from attachment and egoism, balanced in pleasure and pain, and forgiving,

Santushtah satatam yogee yataatatmaa dridhanishchayah;
Mayyarpitamanobuddhiryo madbhaktah sa me priyah.
14. Ever content, steady in meditation, possessed of firm conviction, self-controlled, with mind and intellect dedicated to Me, he, My devotee, is dear to Me.

Yasmaanodwijate loko loko anodwijate cha yah;
Harshaamashabhayodwegaarmuktah yah Sa cha me priyah.
15. He who neither rejoices, nor hates, nor grieves, nor desires, renouncing all undertakings or commencements—he who is (thus) devoted to Me, is dear to Me.

Anapekshah shuchirdaksha udayaseeno gatavyatathah;
Sarvaarambhaparityaagee yo madbhaktah sa me priyah.
16. He who is free from wants, pure, expert, unconcerned, and untroubled, renouncing all undertakings or commencements—he who is (thus) devoted to Me, is dear to Me.

Yona hrisyati na dweshi na shochati na kaangkshati;
Shubhaashubhaparityaagee bhaktimaan yah sa me priyah.
17. He who neither rejoices, nor hates, nor grieves, nor desires, renouncing all undertakings or commencements—he who is (thus) devoted to Me, is dear to Me.

Samah shatrau cha mitre cha tathaa maanaapamaanayoh;
Sheetoshnasukhadhkesu samah sangavivarjithah.
18. He who is the same to foe and friend, and in honour and dishonour, who is the same in cold and heat and in pleasure and pain, who is free from attachment,

Tulyanidastutirmaaneey santushto yena kenachit;
Aniketah sthiramatir bhaktimaan me priyo narah.
19. He who is the same to foe and friend, and in honour and dishonour, who is the same in cold and heat and in pleasure and pain, who is free from attachment— that man is dear to Me.

“The World is a Mess”

I met Christopher Witty in Barcelona recently, and his poem inspired me, so I would like to share it with you all:

The world is a mess
And we don’t know what to do.
Each only thinks of self
And what he can gain
For him and let the rest
Look after them.
This way solutions are for no one
And just prolong
The agony.
Problems need thinking,
Need consensus, time and
Honest selfless consideration.
But man wants answers now
Within his lifetime so
He can gain reward,
A medal on his chest
And money in his vest.

Submitted by Matilde

For other living beings
There is only one objective -
Survival of the species
As a whole, not just the one.
The world is changing, always,
And to survive, we must adapt
And this needs time and sacrifice.
So think insects, birds and bees,
Mammals, flowers and the trees.
Who even help each other
To live and to survive
Another generation.

Are we such a super race
We silly human beings?
Rockets to the moon
And then to Mars. But
Will we be able to survive
So many generations
To find a new home
From our future dying world?
Or will we collapse upon our failings
And leave some other being
To bear the seeds of life - beyond.

Learn traditional arches and shells construction: Volunteering opportunity

Earthweavers is an emerging Design Research Centre in Auroville located near Ponyfarm. Earthweavers has been doing flat arch research for more than two years now. An early prototype testing can be seen at: https://youtu.be/c51MABTq6Mk

At present, Earthweavers is making a building for the Design Research Centre where architecture, design-development, material and structural research can be carried out. The construction of this building uses the traditional technique of Arches and Shells with materials such as lime and country bricks in a contemporary way. The use of concrete is restricted to a minimum by choice.

We invite volunteers, interns, architects, designers and researchers to come and learn by doing on the site the deployment of these traditional techniques and materials for a modern building construction.

Construction site working hours are 9:00 am to 4:30 pm. A minimum commitment of 2 hours per day is recommended. Refreshments will be available to all.

Restorative Circles Learning Community

Building a Compassionate Justice System with L’aura Joy
July 16 & 17 (Saturday - Sunday) - 9.30 am - 5 pm, with a lunch break

Restorative Circles (RC) offer ways for individuals and communities to establish connection, discover meaning and recover power on profound levels. They create forums for reaching agreements that help sustain effective and nurturing relationships both personally and collectively.

This Circle process has developed within the Restorative Justice (RJ) movement, which in recent decades has rediscovered and adapted ways for communities to promote responsibility and healing. Rethinking justice, and engaging with the challenge of consciously building whole system responses to community well-being, has opened up revolutionary possibilities for furthering a culture of peace.

Conflict is an inevitable part of the diversity of life. Yet few of us individually, let alone as a community, know how to respond to conflict with behaviors that do not produce pain and damage relationships.

The RC process offers a way to create community spaces for conflict that are safe and constructive, not destructive. It has been described as a straightforward problem-solving and nonviolent restoration method that demonstrates how community members can resolve their own conflicts when provided with a constructive forum to do so. The establishment of a restorative system empowers communities to consciously choose how they would like to respond to conflict before it occurs – a form of proactive, preventative conflict transformation. It enables them to choose a nonviolent response to conflict that involves the whole community in discovering their own sustainable strategies by addressing immediate as well as underlying long term causes.

A path of Nonviolence (based on Nonviolent Communication, NVC) offers both a deeply-rooted consciousness of oneness, as well as very practical tools to live this more and more in our daily lives. In re-evaluating some of our habitual and conditioned thinking, we see how much of it is life-alienating and based on a culture of scarcity and separation. We’ll learn the skills to be able express ourselves with more clarity and to hear others’ true (and harmless) message, which in turn leads to more connection between us. When we’re connected as human beings, we’re in our natural state of wanting to give and collaborate with others.

In re-evaluating some of our habitual and conditioned thinking, we see how much of it is life-alienating and based on a culture of scarcity and separation. We’ll learn the skills to be able express ourselves with more clarity and to hear others’ true (and harmless) message, which in turn leads to more connection between us. When we’re connected as human beings, we’re in our natural state of wanting to give and collaborate with others.

A path of Nonviolence (based on Nonviolent Communication, NVC) offers both a deeply-rooted consciousness of oneness, as well as very practical tools to live this more and more in our daily lives. In re-evaluating some of our habitual and conditioned thinking, we see how much of it is life-alienating and based on a culture of scarcity and separation. We’ll learn the skills to be able express ourselves with more clarity and to hear others’ true (and harmless) message, which in turn leads to more connection between us. When we’re connected as human beings, we’re in our natural state of wanting to give and collaborate with others.

How the Earth Was Made: The Deepest Place on Earth
44mins Directed by Stefanie Kern, Simon Martin

The discovery of the Marianas Trench was one of the first significant events in marine geology. The Trench is the deepest place on Earth. It was also the first place where scientists could begin to understand the tectonic processes that shape the Earth's crust. This film takes us on a journey to the Marianas Trench, where we witness the ongoing subduction of one tectonic plate under another, creating the trench. We explore the unique marine environments that have evolved in this extreme setting, including the diversity of marine organisms that can survive in this harsh environment. The film combines stunning visuals with expert interviews to provide a comprehensive look at this fascinating geological phenomenon.

AT SAVITRI BHAVAN
Monday, 18th of July 2016 at 6:30 pm
“THE COLLABORATION OF NATURE”

Richard Pearson wanders in the Auroville community ‘Transformation’ and is speaking about the healing power of plants and conscious interactions with plants. He is also speaking about the darshans of Sri Aurobindo and The Mother and the atmosphere of their powerful presence and the time when The Mother started to work with flowers for spiritual education.

Sri Aurobindo wrote: “There are three ways of blessing of the Mother: by sight, by touch and through flowers. And it is through flowers that Her blessings are most effective.” Richard joined the Ashram in 1946 and was educated by The Mother in Botany and taught later Nature History in the Science Laboratory. Duration: 88min.
Indian - Monday 18 July, 8:00 pm:
- TRAFFIC
India, 2016, Dir. Rajesh Pillai w/ Manoj Bajpayee, Jimmy Shergill, Prasenjit Chatterjee, and others, Thriller, 104mins, Hindi w/ English subtitles, Rated: NR (PG-13)
A Mumbai television journalist meets with a fatal accident leaving him on a ventilator. In Pune, a young girl can only be saved if she gets a transplant. The mission of transporting the organ is entrusted to a traffic constable, looking to earn his stripes back! A remake of the 2011 Malayalam film of the same name, the film deals with the vagaries of destiny. On June 25, 2008, multiple characters set out of their homes without knowing what life has in store for them. A good film!

Italian - Tuesday 19 July, 8:00 pm:
- TORNERANNO I PRATI  (Greenery Will Bloom Again)
Italy, 2014, Dir. Ermanno Olmi, w/ Claudio Santamaria, Camillo Grassi, Niccolò Senni, and others, Drama-War, 80 mins, Italian w/ English subtitles, Rated: G
“War is an ugly beast that wanders the earth and never comes to a halt” says Toni Lunardi, the shepherd. We are on the north-eastern front, following the last bloody battles of 1917 on the Altopiano. In the film, the story unfolds in the space of one night. Events follow one another without any kind of pattern: at times the waiting goes on so long that fear has you counting the minutes as they pass until the moment comes when it’s your turn. And subsequently, the peace of the mountains becomes a place where men die. Everything in the story told in this film really happened. And since the past belongs to memory, everyone can recall it to fit in with their own feelings.

Interesting - Wednesday 20 July, 8:00 pm:
- PANDORA’S PROMISE
USA, 2013, Writer-Director Robert Stone w/ Stewart Brand, Gwyneth Cravens, Mark Lynas, and others, Documentary, 87mins, Rated:NR (PG)
This film explores how and why mankind’s most feared and controversial technological discovery, nuclear power, is now being passionately embraced by many of those who once were against it. Operating as history, cultural meditation and contemporary exploration, the film aims to inspire a serious and realistic debate over what is without question the most important question of our time: how do we continue to power modern civilization without destroying it? The film presents the view of its maker. Audience is free to form its own opinion based on this film and other sources. A must see!

Nordic - Thursday 21 July, 8:00 pm:
